

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	9
Preface	11
Bo Stråth
Memory of Mass Murder. The Genocide in Armenian and Non-Armenian Historical Consciousness	13
Klas-Göran Karlsson
The Novelist as an Agent of Collective Remembrance. Pat Barker and the First World War	47
Maria Holmgren Troy
Open Wounds? Trianon, the Holocaust and the Hungarian Trauma	79
Kristian Gerner
“The Unknown Soldier.” Film as a Founding Trauma and National Monument	111
John Sundholm
Agnieszka Holland’s Europa, Europa as a Critical Voice in the Polish Debate on the Second World War	143
Malgorzata Pakier
“Let Us Forget the Evil Memories.” Nazism and the Second World War from the Perspective of a Swedish Fascist	179
Conny Mithander
The Memory of Unexpressed Trauma. The Romanian 1960s	215
Adrian Velicu
Skeletons in the Historical Cupboard. Reflections on Irish National Memory in Joseph O’Neill’s Blood-Dark Track	245
Billy Gray
Contributors	267