Maritime Sicherheit – Moderne Piraterie

Hintergründe, Gefahren und mögliche
Gegenmaßnahmen

Dieses Buch geht über das allgemeine und akademische Interesse hinaus. Es richtet sich vor allem auch an Handelnde an Bord – in Marine und Handelsschifffahrt – sowie an Verantwortliche in Schifffahrtsunternehmen, Streitkräften, Behörden und Politik. Der betroffene Praktiker bekommt hier Einblick in Hintergründe und Handlungswissen zu moderner Piraterie – auch hinsichtlich des neuen deutschen Rechtsrahmens für den Einsatz privater bewaffneter Sicherheitsteams auf Seeschiffen. Hierbei erleichtert der interdisziplinäre Charakter der Beiträge den Zugang. Die Autoren suchen den Austausch jenseits der eigenen Fachexpertise. Ziel ist es, die bestehende Lücke in der praxisorientierten Betrachtung maritimer Sicherheit zu schließen.

Linksextreme Einstellungen und Feindbilder

Befragungen, Statistiken und Analysen

Die Autoren analysieren Strukturen und Entwicklungslinien des aktuellen Linksextremismus. Durch die Auswertung einer repräsentativen Umfrage und durch Befragungen von Jugendlichen zu linksextremen Einstellungen gelangen sie zu einer Charakterisierung von Linksextremisten und ihren zentralen Themenfeldern. Beispielfhaft beleuchten sie Hassbotschaften sowie alte und neue linksextreme Feindbilder. Die Autoren halten fest, dass Linksextremisten zwar einen gewissen Einfluss innerhalb linker Milieus haben, von der Öffentlichkeit aber wenig Beachtung erfahren. Obwohl Linksextremisten den Rechtsstaat ignorieren und Pluralismus sowie parlamentarische Demokratie verachten, wird politisch links motivierte Gewalt weiterhin unterschätzt.

Daniel Duben

Strategien gegen Rechtsextremismus im Fußballstadion

Daniel Duben bietet mehr als einen bloßen Überblick über den Stand der Forschung im Bereich Strategien gegen Rechtsextremismus im Fußballstadion. Bis heute gibt es kein theoretisch fundiertes Gesamtkonzept, das zwischen allen relevanten Akteuren abgestimmt ist und ein zielgerichtetes Vorgehen gegen die verschiedenen Erscheinungsformen des Rechtsextremismus im Fußballstadion ermöglicht. In diesem Buch werden die bis dato vorhandenen Teilerkenntnisse dieses Forschungsfeldes zusammengetragen und erstmals systematisiert. Unter Berücksichtigung potenzieller Berührungspunkte zwischen Rechtsextremen und Fußballfans entwickelt der Autor ein theoretisches Fundament für Strategien gegen die Vereinnahmung von Fankulturen in Fußballstadien durch rechtsextreme Ideologien.

Russland im 21. Jahrhundert. Reif für eine multipolare Welt?

Eine Analyse der strategischen Kultur Russlands und das daraus abgeleitete Erfordernis einer konfliktensiblen Außen- und Sicherheitspolitik gegenüber Russland

Wie mit Russland reden? Angesichts der aktuellen Ukraine-Krise identifiziert das Buch die strategische Kultur Russlands, zeigt deren Auswirkung auf die heutige Außen- und Sicherheitspolitik auf und zieht Folgerungen für den Umgang mit Russland. Neorealistische Analysen können Russlands Verhalten in der multipolaren Welt des 21. Jahrhunderts nur begrenzt erklären und führen in ihren Schlussfolgerungen zu einem Wiederaufleben der früheren Blockkonfrontation. Ein wesentlicher Wandel der strategischen Kultur erfolgte nach dem Zusammenbruch der Sowjetunion. Kooperative Politikansätze können darauf aufbauen. Der politische Westen sollte Mut zu mehr Pluralismus im internationalen System zeigen. Eine erneute Blockkonfrontation ist vermeidbar – dies ist eine zentrale Aussage des Buches.

Security, Democracy and Development

In the Southern Caucasus and the Black Sea Region

Since the early 1990s, the southern Caucasus and its larger neighbourhood, the Black Sea region, have experienced deep and sometimes painful transformations, including bloody conflicts. They have also become an arena of geopolitical and geoeconomic competition between great powers. This has attracted growing attention from social scientists. In this volume, authors from universities in Europe, the United States and the southern Caucasus focus on several of the most topical problems of the region, particularly how nascent states and societies grapple with the results of unresolved ethno-territorial conflicts and how they try to construct new civil societies from the cultural mosaic that they inherited from their Soviet past. How do elements of democracy and autocracy combine in the political regimes of the new states? Can the West have an effect on their internal development and, if so, how? How do the rich mineral resources of the Caspian region influence the development of the region's economies and define the geopolitical standing of these countries?

Gegen Staat und Kapital – für die Revolution!

Linksextremismus in Deutschland – eine empirische Studie

Das Buch zeichnet ein differenziertes Bild vom aktuellen Linksextremismus in Deutschland. Die Autoren werfen einen kritischen Blick auf den Forschungsstand, beschreiben die Geschichte des Linksextremismus und entwickeln auf Basis der Selbstdarstellungen typischer linksextremer Gruppen eine Skala, die die verschiedenen Dimensionen eines linksextremen Einstellungsmusters umfasst. Auf dieser Grundlage führte Infratest dimap eine repräsentative Befragung der deutschen Bevölkerung durch, die die weite Verbreitung linksextremer Einstellungen in der Bevölkerung zeigt. Darüber hinaus erfolgt eine kritische Betrachtung der Diskussion um den Begriff «Extremismus». Der Zusammenhang von (Links-)Extremismus und Gewalt wird ebenso erörtert wie die Realität linksextremen Gewalthandelns. Hinzu kommen Interviews mit ehemaligen Linksradikalen und linksaffinen Jugendlichen.

INHALT: Geschichte des Linksextremismus in Deutschland • Selbstdarstellungen typischer linksextremer Gruppen • Die Autonomen • Der Streit um den Begriff «Extremismus» • (Links-)Extremismus und Gewalt • Politisch motivierte Gewalttaten • Feindbilder von Linksextremisten • Der Blick zurück ehemaliger Linksradikaler • Politische Einstellungen linksaffiner Jugendlicher • Aktuelle Akzeptanz linksextremer Einstellungsdimensionen in der Bevölkerung.

Cesáreo Rodríguez-Aguilera de Prat

The European Democratic Deficit

The Response of the Parties in the 2014 Elections

The «never-ending crisis» that started in 2008 and the technocratic and fiscal measures demanded by the «Troika» have aggravated the EU's so-called «democratic deficit» more than ever before. In this essay the principal theoretical and practical dimensions of this phenomenon at the levels of institution, procedure and social legitimacy are set out and developed. With this in mind, the dysfunctions in the architecture of the institutions, the elite, complex and opaque mechanisms in decision-making and, most importantly, the growing critical estrangement of many citizens reveals that poor democratic quality of the EU constitutes its principal and most serious political problem. To empirically illustrate this debate, Rodríguez-Aguilera evaluates the positions and proposals of the parties in the six most populous countries that have addressed this issue through a comparative analysis of their political programmes.

The Europeanization of Industrial Relations in the Service Sector

Problems and Perspectives in a Heterogeneous Field

The service sector has not always received the attention it merits in industrial relations research when set against its enormous economic significance. One factor in this is certainly the highly diverse nature of services. Research attention has also lagged behind long-standing processes of transnationalization undertaken by service sector companies and the challenges these pose for policy and practice in the field of employment relations. This study by Stefan Rüb and Hans-Wolfgang Platzer represents a pioneering effort to remedy this gap. Through six named company case studies, Rüb and Platzer explore the scope and background for transnational employee relations conflicts and the mechanisms that have emerged to resolve and anticipate these, highlighting the complex relationships between employee representatives, management and trade unions.

The choice of case studies aims to capture a broad range of service sector employment, in terms of both working conditions and employment relations arrangements. As well as covering a number of key sectors, the choice of home countries of the selected firms also aims to capture the impact of national influences for the main industrial relations models in Europe. Overall, the study offers insights into the complexities of the Europeanization of company-level industrial relations in a dynamic field now also confronted by the convulsions unleashed by the Eurozone crisis.

Radicalism and Terrorism in the 21st Century

Implications for Security

This book addresses the issues of radicalism and terrorism, which are of exceptional importance and relevance in contemporary society. Each of the two phenomena are analyzed from a multidisciplinary perspective. The book contains articles which explore legal, political, psychological, economic and social aspects of radicalism and terrorism. A portion of the contributions are of a theoretical nature, they constitute an attempt at constructing analytical frameworks for studies on the two phenomena. There are also studies of particular cases, such as radicalism in Poland and in Spain, as well as within the European Union as a whole. This collective work is a response to the need for analyses of two issues which are increasingly responsible for determining the level of security which characterizes the contemporary world.

Guerre et Paix

Une destinée européenne ?

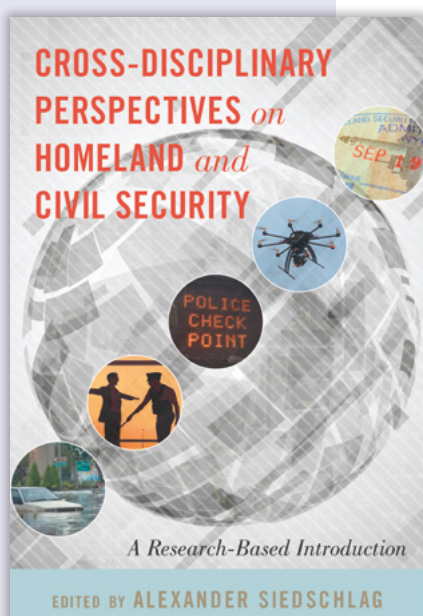

Les expériences communes des Européens conduisent-elles à une « européanisation des consciences » ? L'amorce d'un processus de construction européenne au XX^e siècle, et notamment après 1945, s'est nourrie d'un narratif mettant en valeur l'apport de ce processus à la paix, au développement socio-économique et à l'enracinement démocratique. Ce narratif est présent dans l'ensemble des discours et décliné à travers des adaptations nationales dans la majeure partie des États membres de l'UE. En panne aujourd'hui, il mérite d'être interrogé. Ne favorise-t-il pas des « mémoires concurrentes », rendent difficile l'émergence de lieux de mémoire européens ? Compte tenu, justement, de certains événements mémoriels : centenaire de la Grande Guerre, soixantième anniversaire du déclenchement de la guerre d'Algérie, conférence de Genève de 1954 qui scelle la fin de la première guerre d'Indochine, échec de la CED en 1954 qui lance le processus de réarmement de l'Allemagne, les auteurs des contributions réunies dans ces actes réfléchissent à la thématique de la destinée européenne, autour de trois axes : les conflits européens (ces « guerres civiles européennes »), les victimes, et les processus de pacification.

Ce volume se veut un hommage rendu à l'œuvre de l'homme qui, dans les murs de sa maison de Scy-Chazelles, a réfléchi à la paix européenne. Il voudrait ainsi permettre le dépassement de cette classique destinée européenne évoquée par le titre de la manifestation.

Cross-disciplinary Perspectives on Homeland and Civil Security

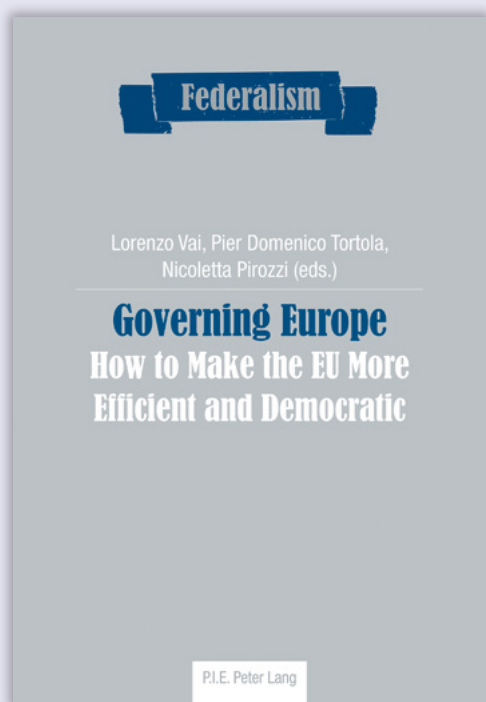

A Research-Based Introduction

New York, 2015. XVI, 306 pp.

CHF 37.– / €^D 32.80 / €^A 33.80 /
€ 30.70 / £ 25.– / US-$ 39.95

This uniquely composed textbook provides a cross-disciplinary introduction to the field of homeland and civil security. It unites U.S. and international scholars and practitioners in addressing both foundational topics and risk-informed priorities in fostering secure societies. The book examines research-related foundations of homeland and civil security across national boundaries, and how those apply to addressing real-world challenges of our time. Representing different disciplines, intellectual styles, and methodological choices in meeting those challenges, chapters provide a comprehensive perspective across different approaches and levels of governance within an all-hazards framework. The book covers international experiences in border management; intelligence for homeland security; comparative political and legal frameworks for use of «drones»; risk management at the tribal level; terrorism as a strategic hybrid threat; critical infrastructure protection and resilience; historical lessons for emergency management in the homeland security era; the leadership challenge in homeland security; ethics, legal, and social issues in homeland and civil security research and practice; and examples of the scientific status of the field from the epistemic as well as the educational point of view. Including a research guide, a glossary, a bibliography, and an index, the book will be of distinctive worth to homeland security students in graduate courses, as well as to an international student community taking courses in political science, public administration, «new security studies», and security research.

Afrika: Radikal neu denken?

Alternative Pfade für Politik in Afrika

Der Sammelband vereint Beiträge, die im Rahmen der Vorlesungsreihe «Afrika: Radikal neu denken?» an der Freien Universität Berlin entstanden sind. Sie fragen nach den Pfaden, die Afrikaner_innen heute jenseits der anscheinend allgemein gültigen Konventionen beschreiten oder beschreiten wollen. Die Autor_innen beschreiben Visionen für die Zukunft des Kontinents und erfragen Potentiale und Grenzen mutiger sowie radikal neuer politischer Konzepte. Die Beiträge beschäftigen sich unter anderem mit den Visionen politischer Vordenker_innen vom Kontinent, mit Migration und der Abschottung der EU, mit aktuelleren Ereignissen im Sudan und Ägypten, Food Riots in Burkina Faso, Handelspolitik, moderner Sklaverei und #occupynigeria.

Capitalist Imperialism in Contemporary Theoretical Frameworks

New Theories

This book analyzes the controversy surrounding imperialism associated with capitalist development. The last dozen years passed under the shadow of two momentous events: the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan conducted in the framework of the broader «war on terror», and the economic crisis. They occurred against the backdrop of global economic integration, but also against the contradictions in its development. Those events and processes are explained in the theory of contemporary capitalist imperialism that the author attempts to reconstruct.

Policy Payoffs in Koalitionsverhandlungen

Eine Analyse ideologischer Distanzen zwischen Wahlprogrammen und Koalitionsverträgen

Schon seit der Entdeckung von «Gamsons Law» 1961 konzentriert sich die Koalitionsforschung auf die Verteilung von Ämtern zwischen Regierungsparteien. Dieser Beitrag untersucht die bisher wenig beachtete Verteilung von politischen Inhalten. Die Autorin misst Policy Payoffs als ideologische Distanzen zwischen Wahlprogrammen und Koalitionsverträgen politischer Parteien mithilfe der Textanalysemethode Wordscores. Ihre Analyse zeigt, dass die Verteilung von Policies anderen Regeln folgt als die Verteilung von Portfolios.

Political Leadership in Morphogenetic Perspective

This book depicts a new research perspective of political leadership, in which the multi-level and dynamic leadership relation is explained as relations between the leader (human agency) and followers (sociological environment). In this sense, leadership comprises mutual influences between personal and structural domain. In morphogenesis, the subjective matrix of leadership keeps the division into private and public exposure, as well as individual and collective realization, which in fact means that the phenomenon of political leadership directly depends on the reality of the agent and structure. The author offers a new point of view for his primary research goal, which is a precise and systematic explication of the notion of political leadership in the morphogenetic scope.

Power of Imagination

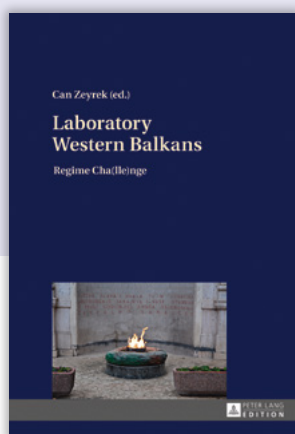

Education, Innovations and Democracy

The purpose of this book is to encourage the use and exploration of imagination, intuition and insight as essential ingredients for scientific, educational and civic endeavors. This groundbreaking book is a kind of intellectual provocation, but also an antidote for our current crises in education. It is a dizzying, transdisciplinary and morphing romp through fields as disparate as complexity theory, quantum physics, neuroscience, political sciences as well as the innovative uses of games.

Laboratory Western Balkans

Regime Challenge

Even though comprehensive studies on political systems in the third wave of democratization have been made in the field of transformation, the situation in the Western Balkans remained underexposed. The reason for this might be that the fall of Yugoslavia and the emergence of new states are events that are to be attributed to the third wave of democratization. As Croatia has chosen the path of democracy, others still have problems with the rule of law. This book draws the political culture approach as a focal point providing a comprehensive understanding of transformations. The aim of this volume is to conceptualize the approach of embedded transformation.

Mutations de société et réponses du droit

Perspectives franco-asiatiques comparées

Ces colloques Asie-Europe consacrés aux approches juridiques et politiques permettent de comparer des systèmes différents sans d'abord en maîtriser toutes les nuances changeantes. Leur parti-pris est de faire se rencontrer des collègues de trois pays ou pays d'Eurasie (Kazakhstan, France, Corée, bientôt Chine et Russie) et les laisser dialoguer en tant que spécialistes de 'leur' système nationale pour faciliter les comparaisons. De ces initiatives construites, il ressort deux éléments. Malgré les certitudes chez certains Européens que le droit communautaire de l'UE est unique en son genre, le droit régional n'est qu'un genre de droit international. Malgré les difficultés pour les centrasiatiques dans leur transition postsoviétique d'imaginer un droit transfrontières, il existe un besoin de gestion commune des progrès juridiques de construction de cette partie de l'Asie. Il est délicat d'éviter la tentation de voir des « modèles » à tirer de tel ou tel système politique ou juridique. La tentation inverse est de rejeter un système comme transposable parce que trop différent. Cet ouvrage montre qu'il faut connaître les caractéristiques des autres solutions adoptées pour s'en inspirer, mieux comprendre, voire améliorer, un appareil institutionnel et normatif, issue autant de l'histoire d'un pays que des influences reçues.

du continent eurasiatique. Nous sommes heureux d'avoir eu la chance de faire partie des pionnières envolées et des premières réussites !

Education and Tolerance

A Comparative Quantitative Analysis of the Educational Effect on Tolerance

This book examines to what extent the effect of education on political and social tolerance varies cross-nationally. It gives an inventory of micro- and macro- level factors moderating this effect. The empirical analysis is based on comparative surveys across 24 and 33 countries at two time points. Results indicate that the positive effect of education does not always overcome the negative effects of personality characteristics and low socio-economic status. Moreover, education contributes to more tolerant views only in countries with certain political, socio-economic and cultural background. Overall, the book argues that there are several micro- and macro-level conditions that should be fulfilled before one may proclaim education as the universal problem solver.

Accountability and democracy in Poland and Spain

This book is a response to the need for scientific research on one of the components of quality of democracy, id est accountability. The author analyses thoroughly in cross-section the accountability mechanisms in Poland and Spain. This approach required that each of the issues under investigation be reviewed synthetically, and only the aspects meaningful for the notion of accountability have been explored. This book may be a starting point for further, more in-depth analyses of accountability, not only in Poland and Spain but also in other countries.

Agriculture et changements globaux

Expertises globales et situations locales

L'agriculture est au cœur des changements globaux, tant pour avoir participé à leur survenue que comme solution potentielle. Aussi n'est-il pas étonnant qu'elle tienne une place particulière dans les prospectives destinées à faire réfléchir les décideurs sur les scénarios souhaitables pour relever les défis posés par ces problématiques. Deux scénarios, considérés comme des scénarios de rupture, retiennent particulièrement l'attention des analystes : le scénario dit de Technogarden, destiné à utiliser les technologies pour résoudre les problèmes posés par le mode de développement moderne, et le scénario dit Mosaïque adaptative qui prône l'autonomie des territoires, voire une certaine décroissance. Après avoir examiné dans la première partie de l'ouvrage les fondements scientifiques de ces analyses, les enjeux des prospectives et les différentes options qu'elles posent, la deuxième partie est consacrée à l'analyse de trois situations concrètes : la protection de la forêt tropicale en Afrique centrale, la colonisation de l'Amazonie et la production au travers de semences transgéniques dans les Pampas argentines. Écrit par un géographe mais faisant largement appel aux apports des sciences sociales, cet ouvrage montre l'importance des verrouillages spatiaux, c'est-à-dire des rapports à l'espace hérités des cinquante dernières années et limitant fortement les possibilités d'innovations.

L'Europe et la question énergétique

Les années 1960/1980

Au-delà des deux dates charnières de 1973 et 1979, il importe de considérer les évolutions qui ont touché l'Europe de l'ouest comme des mutations nécessaires dans un monde de moins en moins bipolaire. À travers ses épreuves et ses hésitations, la Communauté européenne construit malgré tout un parcours original dans le domaine énergétique. Consciente de ses faiblesses, elle n'a pas toutes les armes pour dépasser ses contradictions. Mais la période 1960/1980 lui permet au moins de poser les bases de solutions adaptées aux réalités du Vieux Continent.

The European Union Approach Towards Western Sahara

In the framework of the so-called Barcelona process, the European Union concluded several bilateral agreements with Morocco aimed to deepen their economic integration. The 2000 Association agreement European Union – Morocco is the general legal framework for the development of relationships among the two parties. In this context, the recent Agreement on reciprocal liberalisation measures on agricultural products and fishery products, entered in force in 2012, and the Fisheries Partnership Agreement, issued in 2013, were established. They reiterate and update former agreements. No one of them expressly excludes the territory of Western Sahara from the scope of application, in contrast with other similar agreements negotiated with other countries, such as the Free trade pact between Morocco and the United States of America. The non-exclusion of the territory of Western Sahara raises several concerns on the compliance of these agreements with International Law, not only in relation to the principle of self-determination of peoples but also with the principle of sovereignty of natural resources, the prohibition of exploitation of resources of a territory under occupation, the obligation to not recognise situations arisen in an illegal way, the prohibition to negotiate agreement with an occupying country once the process of decolonisation has begun.

Hearts and Minds

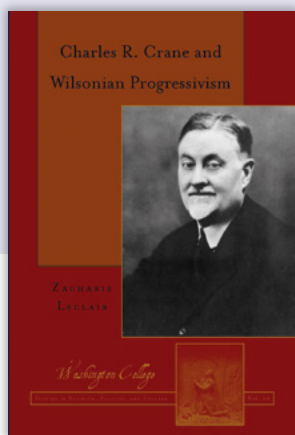

US Cultural Management in 21st
Century Foreign Relations

This volume looks at a key component of recent US foreign relations, namely, its emphasis on «hearts and minds» as part of its cultural management of the global Other. The authors collected here analyze to what extent we can frame the intent and consequences of this term as a coherent policy, discussing how to think about foreign policy strategies that involve the management of cultural relations. «Including fascinating first-hand and deeply-researched accounts of the workings of various US institutions (many of them 'cultural'), this volume is a must for an understanding of the power the US projects worldwide.» (Professor Laleh Khalili, SOAS University of London), «This fascinating collection reveals the nuance and complexity behind a seemingly banal phrase.» (Professor David Schmid, State University of New York at Buffalo)

Puissances émergentes et sécurité internationale : une nouvelle donne ?

Une perspective pluridisciplinaire sur la puissance et l'émergence sur la scène internationale

Cet ouvrage vient enrichir la réflexion sur les puissances émergentes (en dépassant le seul cadre des BRICS pour intégrer des puissances telles que l'Iran) en soulevant des questions peu fréquentes, voire inédites, quant à leur rôle dans la recomposition des relations internationales contemporaines. À travers des communications pluridisciplinaires relevant du droit international, des relations internationales ou de la géopolitique, il s'agit de s'interroger sur la notion de puissance aujourd'hui. Dans cette perspective, les auteurs analysent les attributs des puissances émergentes en matière de sécurité internationale. Mettent-elles en place des réformes dans leurs ressources militaires en vue de devenir des acteurs à part entière de la sécurité internationale, ou optent-elles plutôt pour des stratégies de coopération visant à forger des alliances entre puissances émergentes ainsi que traditionnelles (telles que la France ou le Royaume-Uni) ? Ont-elles vocation à prendre en charge la sécurité régionale dans leur sphère d'influence ? Manifestent-elles des velléités d'expansion comparables à celles des puissances traditionnelles ? Ces questionnements visent à offrir un cadrage général autour de la notion de puissances émergentes, et s'appuient sur de nombreuses études de cas.

Charles R. Crane and Wilsonian Progressivism

This book presents a study of the career of Charles R. Crane, a central player in President Woodrow Wilson's entourage. In the wake of the U.S. intervention in the Great War, Crane participated in important diplomatic and fact-finding missions. Leclair follows Crane through revolutionary Russia and on the Western front, in the emerging countries born out of the Ottoman Empire, and then in postwar China. In the process, Leclair's book offers original insights into some of the major domestic and international decisions that define Wilson's presidency and its legacy in the history of the United States and of international relations, most notably Wilson's motivation and effort to bring about a new world order under American political and moral leadership. Leclair convincingly portrays Crane as a proponent of the principle of self-determination – one, indeed, whose aversion to colonialism predated Wilson's international vision as formulated in his Fourteen Points. While a convergence of reform interest and humanitarian concerns brought Crane and Wilson together on some of the most complex issues of the time, Crane's vision – propelled by a genuine philanthropic commitment – adds substance to what has largely been derided as empty Wilsonian idealism. The thematic structure of this book, the quality of its narration, and the wealth of information it contains, are added elements that make it an excellent contribution to the field of U.S. history. It could be used as an assigned reading in college or university courses, especially in advanced American history, American Political thought and international relations courses.

Présenter, année par année, les documents les plus significatifs de la politique étrangère de la France et conservés par le ministère des affaires étrangères : tel est l'objet des « Documents diplomatiques français » (DDF). La sélection de ces documents est faite d'une façon rigoureusement scientifique et en toute indépendance par des équipes de chercheurs et d'historiens sous la direction d'éminents universitaires. Pour ce faire, ces équipes ont un accès total à toutes les archives produites ou reçues par le ministère français des affaires étrangères. La sélection des documents publiés est complétée, pour en rendre la lecture plus aisée, par une table méthodique, des notes de bas de page et un index des noms de personnes. La collection des DDF est un outil indispensable à la connaissance de l'histoire des relations internationales et de la diplomatie française au cours du XX^e siècle.

Culture(s) in International Relations

This book presents a critical reflection on how the presence of «culture» in theory and practice of international relations is reflected in International Relations as a research field. The authors analyze culture in International Relations scholarship and evaluate culture in the practice of International Relations, as well as in International Law. The contemporary social sciences have put culture on a pedestal. The proliferation of the meanings associated with the notion of what culture is, has gone very far. The results of analyses presented in this book are meant to contribute to solving the existing confusion, to identify the research fields in IR where culture appears.

Poland's New Ways of Public Diplomacy

This book analyzes when and how Poland implemented public diplomacy. The author explains it as a form of external political communication of governments conducted in cooperation with non-state actors to position the country internationally. The Polish case illustrates how a mid-size country in Europe attempts to impact the public opinion formation abroad while implementing soft power tools. Since 2004, when Poland joined the EU, the country has used public diplomacy to inform the world about its achievements. Poland's public diplomacy has been strongly oriented on Europe and shaped by geopolitics. It integrated transmission and network models of communication. The Polish model reflects the relevance of public diplomacy domestic dimension and the focus on foreign politics on memory. «The book (...) is the first monograph analyzing contemporary Polish public diplomacy written in English, being at the same time a methodologically sound piece of research, based on extensive primary source research.» (Professor Andrzej Mania, Chair of American Studies and the History of Diplomacy and International Politics, Jagiellonian University) «An excellent case study of public diplomacy. Ociecka systematically analyzed the Polish utilization of key public diplomacy instruments including cultural diplomacy, branding and Twiplomacy, and properly placed them within historical and theoretical contexts.» (Professor Eytan Gilboa, Director, Center for International Communication, Bar-Ilan University)

Le rôle du Conseil de l'Europe dans la démocratisation de la Turquie

Fondé en 1949, au terme de la Seconde Guerre mondiale, le Conseil de l'Europe a le but de réaliser une union plus étroite entre ses membres afin de sauvegarder et de promouvoir les idéaux et les principes démocratiques. L'adhésion de la Turquie au Conseil de l'Europe conférerait au pays, en 1949 et pour la première fois, une identité européenne et démocratique, un caractère à forte variable symbolique sur la scène internationale. Au cours de suspension de la démocratie, en maintenant la Turquie en son sein, il montrait l'importance qu'il attachait à ses relations avec Ankara afin que le pays assure un retour rapide à une démocratie parlementaire conforme aux principes européens. En outre, la qualité de membre de cette organisation était devenue l'occasion d'acquisitions majeures pour le citoyen turc qui profitait et use toujours des standards produits et développés par le COE sur le plan des droits de l'homme, de l'état de droit et des libertés fondamentales qui sont les piliers de la sécurité démocratique.

Eine Rolle für die NATO out-of-area?

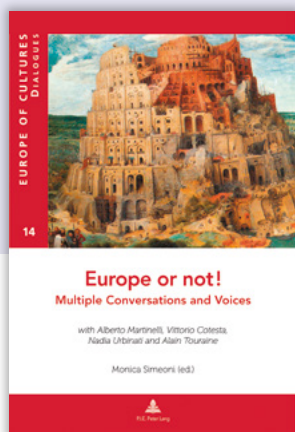

Das Bündnis in der Phase der Dekolonisierung 1949–1961

Die out-of-area-Debatte der NATO wurde im untersuchten Zeitraum vom Ausgreifen des Kalten Krieges auf Afrika und Asien sowie von der Kolonialpolitik fünf ihrer Partnerstaaten erfasst. Die Debatte belastete das Bündnis und übte einen maßgeblichen Einfluss auf die Struktur der NATO aus: Artikel 4 des NATO-Vertrags erlangte dabei ebenso eine herausragende Bedeutung wie die Absicht der Kolonialmächte, die USA für ihre Ziele zu instrumentalisieren. Die Analyse der Allianz auf Basis multiarchivalischer Forschung, die Oral History-Projekte und Nachlässe von Politikern einschließt, trägt so zum Verständnis der Organisation bei – zumal der Aufgabenbereich der NATO bis heute zwischen den Polen regionaler Verteidigung und globaler Ordnungsfunktion schwankt.

Conflit et coopération France – Allemagne XIXe-XXe siècle

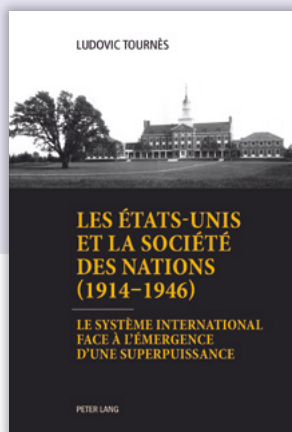

Mélanges en l'honneur d'Anne-Marie Saint-Gille

Cet ouvrage regroupe quatorze contributions d'universitaires germanistes qui ont souhaité rendre hommage à leur collègue Anne-Marie Saint-Gille dont les travaux de recherche et l'enseignement ont principalement porté sur la construction de la paix en Europe. Les contributeurs interrogent les relations franco-allemandes qui ont toujours constitué l'un des enjeux majeurs de la paix sur le continent européen. Couvrant le XIX^e et le XX^e siècle, les articles réunis permettent de dégager l'une des constantes les plus remarquables des relations France-Allemagne : l'attirance mutuelle des deux voisins tiraillés depuis plus de deux siècles entre une volonté de coopération et la tentation du conflit.

European Community – Yugoslav Relations

Debates and Documents that Mattered (1968–1992)

Official relations between the then European Community and the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia were established in 1968. The two decades that followed were a period of great uncertainty, culminating in the late 1980s, with many Community officials being quite sceptical about the future of the Yugoslav federation. The Community's decision in early 1992 to recognize Slovenia and Croatia as independent states, leading to the disintegration of Yugoslavia, has inspired numerous diametrically opposed explanations of policy choices, often raising as many questions as they answer. This volume is a unique selection of valuable archival material dealing with different aspects of cooperation between the European Community and Yugoslavia. While offering a range of fresh insights, the primary sources presented here also contribute to a greater understanding of the ever-present dilemma regarding the survival of the former Yugoslav state.

Nation-Building in the Shadow of the Bear: The Dialectics of National Identity and Foreign Policy in the Kyrgyz Republic 1991–2012

Since 1991, Kyrgyzstan's leaders have pursued a post-Soviet national identity. Their concepts failed to consolidate the country's multi-ethnic society, and continuously antagonize civic values and ethnic myth. The author applies international relations theory to frame Kyrgyzstan's identity crisis: The ruling elite has to manage tensions between their strong dependency on Russia as main donor and security provider and domestic challenges in their pursuit of a national identity. A legitimate national identity must represent both the foreign policy interests of the country and the demands of the Kyrgyz majority and ethnic minorities for representation. The Kyrgyz case unveils the complex dialectics of domestic pressure and external interests that have defined post-Soviet nation building in Russia's near abroad.

Europe or Not! Multiple Conversations and Voices

With Alberto Martinelli, Vittorio Cotesta, Nadia Urbinati and Alain Touraine

Europe is in crisis and the EU project risks disintegration. The refugee and Brexit issues, as well as recent events in Turkey, demonstrate how serious matters really are. In a EurActiv interview, in February 2016, Edgar Morin, the French sociologist and philosopher, speaks of a «planetary crisis» and the need «to change civilisation» in order to respond to the complexity of today's world. Furthermore, the drama of terrorism, a new phenomenon for contemporary western democracies requires serious reflection regarding jihadism and its radicalisation. These are but some of the issues addressed during the multiple conversations held with the three sociologists, Alberto Martinelli, Vittorio Cotesta and Alain Touraine and with the political scientist, Nadia Urbinati. All the interviewees are leading experts on European issues and institutions, as well as on democracy put to the test currently by rampant populism in almost all the EU countries. Alain Touraine fervently holds that «it is madness» not to want a united Europe at a moment when we need a new political and economic project capable of defeating the nationalism, walls and separation between states that now seem to prevail. Europe finds itself in a dramatic position: it must choose innovation and construction, or disintegration, with all the unpredictable consequences this may entail.

Les États-Unis et la Société des Nations (1914–1946)

Le système international face à l'émergence d'une superpuissance

Bien qu'ils n'aient pas adhéré à la Société des Nations, les États-Unis ont largement participé à ses activités, jouant un rôle déterminant dans le développement des sections techniques, ancêtres des agences spécialisées de l'ONU (santé, travail, questions économiques, coopération intellectuelle). Les principaux acteurs de cette participation sont les fondations philanthropiques, notamment la Rockefeller foundation et la Carnegie endowment for international peace. Décidées à intégrer coûte que coûte les États-Unis dans le système sociétaire afin de pouvoir influencer sur l'élaboration de normes internationales, les fondations sont tout au long de l'histoire de la SdN des soutiens financiers et des partenaires intellectuelles majeures. Le gouvernement américain n'est pas absent du processus : comprenant l'intérêt de ne pas rester aux portes de l'organisation internationale, il envoie des experts dans les multiples commissions créées par la SdN et soutient discrètement l'activité des fondations. La participation américaine, officielle mais massive, contribue ainsi à remodeler dès l'entre-deux-guerres le système international.

Multilateralism in Global Governance

Formal and Informal Institutions

The aim of this edited volume is to bring back multilateralism in global governance research by going beyond the state-centric and formal models of multilateralism of the 1990s and deeper into the informal private agents and structures of global governance. The volume is situated within the third generation scholarly research tying together disparate efforts from various disciplines, such as International Relations, Public Administration, International Law and International Political Economy under the overarching theme of multilateralism approached from the three different angles: normative dimensions of global governance, issue-areas, such as migration and international trade, as well as the limits of multilateralism.

Expatriating Democracy

Dissidents, Technology, and Democratic Discourse in the Middle East

Taking Syria and Iran as case studies, this book explores how expatriate groups have used tools such as technology and new media to influence political discourse and to irrevocably alter the political dynamics both in their home countries and in the Middle East at large. Based on over 60 in-depth interviews with dissidents, expat leaders, journalists and researchers from Syria and Iran that were conducted both before and after the Arab Spring, the author examines the tripartite relationship between technology, dissent and democratization. This approach offers a unique perspective on contemporary geopolitics in the Middle East and considers possible scenarios for the future of the region.

tisierung und Nationsbildung in Luxemburg im 19. und frühen 20. Jahrhundert. Sein Befund: Die Nation entstand nicht aus einer ursprünglichen Einheit, sondern aus dem politischen Konflikt heraus. Der lange Kampf um die politische Repräsentation schuf eine neue Vorstellung von Gemeinschaft. Worin die Identität dieser Gemeinschaft besteht, bleibt in der Demokratie aber immer umstritten. Knapp hundert Jahre nach der Einführung des allgemeinen Wahlrechts und der Volkssouveränität bietet das Buch damit zugleich die erste umfassende Geschichte der «demokratischen Revolution» in Luxemburg.

Development by Free Trade? Développement à travers le libre-échange ?

The Impact of the European Unions'
Neoliberal Agenda on the North African Countries

Les enjeux de l'agenda Néolibéral de l'Union européenne pour les pays de l'Afrique du Nord

One year ago the negotiations between Tunisia and the European Union about a deep and comprehensive free trade agreement (DCFTA) had started in Tunis. Experts from both sides of the Mediterranean accepted to contribute to this book in order to foster the public debate in the North-African countries by informing actors of the civil society about the risks of this new generation of free trade agreements of the EU for the respective countries and their population. In fact, by analyzing the impact of the structural adjustment programs of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund in Tunisia, Morocco and Algeria since the late 1980s followed up by the EU's free trade policy, the authors seriously doubt about the positive effects on development and prosperity promised by the promoters of free trade. They underline, on the contrary, that it is the EU which profits from the asymmetric power-relations in order to pursue its economic and especially its security interests related to «illegal migration».

Grundriss einer heterodoxen Didaktisierung des Finanzsystems

Der Autor zeigt anhand des Finanzsystems auf, warum es notwendig ist, die ökonomische Bildung in eine sozialwissenschaftliche Bildung zu überführen. Dabei entwickelt er ein Schema zur Darstellung des Finanzsystems und führt aus, warum die Märkte des Finanzsystems immer von einem Marktversagen betroffen sein können. Zur Krisenhaftigkeit trägt ebenfalls die internationale Verknüpfung über den Weltkapitalmarkt bei, der in die Darstellung integriert wird. Basierend auf dieser Analyse wird nachgewiesen, wie wenig die herkömmliche ökonomische Bildung zum Verständnis des Finanzsystems beiträgt. Der Autor präsentiert anschließend Vorschläge zur Weiterentwicklung des Ökonomieunterrichts.

Leap into Modernity – Political Economy of Growth on the Periphery, 1943–1980

This book describes struggles of different countries and their development after World War II. It presents a panorama of different ideologies of accelerated development, which dominated the world just before the war and in the next 40 years. The author explains why in the 1970s global and local elites began to turn away from the state, exchanging statism for the belief in the «invisible hand of the market» as a panacea for underdevelopment. He focuses not only on the genesis of underdevelopment, but also on the causes of popularity of economic planning, and the advent of neoliberalism in the discourse of development economics. This book evaluates the power of state as a vehicle of progress and focuses in detail on the Soviet Union, China, Poland, Ghana, Tanzania, and South Korea.

Capital-in-Crisis, Trade Unionism and the Question of Revolutionary Agency

The entry of the capital relation into its epoch of structural crisis forms the basis for the development of the author's conception of revolutionary agency. Drawing on the work and achievements of both Marx and Hungarian socialist thinker István Mészáros, May relates the emergence and deepening of the structural crisis to the decline of trade unionism as the traditional and universal form of organization deployed economically by workers against capital. In the relationship between the «defensively-structured», universal, trade union form and the growing contradictions of the global capitalist system, May seeks to unearth the possibility of a higher form of agency which is more adequately adapted to address the immediate and long-term objectives facing millions of people today worldwide in the age of capital's «destructive self-reproduction». Looking back in order to look forward, he also subjects the form of agency within the Russian Revolution to a critique which relates it directly to the conditions prevailing in Russia at the time. In so doing, he questions its supposed validity as a form of revolutionary agency for the struggle to put an end to the global capitalist system today.

The New Pension Mix in Europe

Recent Reforms, Their Distributional Effects and Political Dynamics

This book – based on a research project carried out by the Observatoire Social Européen asbl, with the financial support of the European Trade Union Institute (ETUI) – looks at the most recent developments in pension policy and politics in Europe and advances our understanding of the field in three respects: firstly, it contributes to improve our knowledge of the most recent reform wave passed in the wake of the recent economic and financial crisis; secondly, it assesses the long-term financial and social sustainability of pensions; thirdly, it analyses the politics of pensions and the way policymakers and stakeholders interact in order to address the major challenges to pensions. The evidence proposed by six country chapters (about Italy, France, Finland, Poland, the Netherlands and UK) and three more transversal chapters (about the role of the EU, that of trade unions in pension reforms, and the main challenges to pension systems in Europe) proves that pension systems have been altered in the wake of the recent crisis.

the emergence of a «new» pension mix in Europe, with new institutional settings, and new challenges.

The History of the European Monetary Union

Comparing Strategies amidst Prospects for Integration and National Resistance

The financial and economic crisis that hit Europe in 2009 brought out the precariousness of the monetary union, accentuating the economic disequilibrium among European nations and strengthening Euro-skepticism. The crisis served as a catalyst for long-standing and unresolved problems: the creation of a singly monetary area with intergovernmental control, the final act in the construction of a Europe economically united but without a government and a state; the consequent discrepancy between forming a consensus that remains in large part national and the political dynamics in Europe; the sustainability of a monetary union in the absence of an economic-social union, which presents again the long-standing debate between «monetarist» countries and «economist» countries. This book aims at placing current events within a long-term framework composed of a mosaic of multidisciplinary contributions that can provide the reader with keys which are adequate for an understanding of these events and useful for opening up new horizons.

the creation of the Eurozone and its crisis – starting from the turbulent years of the first decade of the new millennium and ending on May 31, 2016, just before the Brexit referendum. The book focuses on analyzing the strategies undertaken during the monetary unification process, underscoring, on the one hand, the conviction of the Founding Fathers of the EMU that a single currency would favor further progress toward a more stringent economic and political integration, and on the other the continuing national resistance to the transfer of sovereignty from the national states to the European Union.

Sparkassenpolitik in Deutschland

Eine politikwissenschaftliche Untersuchung der Deregulierungs- und Privatisierungsdiskussion

In seiner Studie untersucht der Autor erstmals die politischen Entscheidungen im Bereich der Sparkassenpolitik bei Deregulierungs- und Privatisierungsvorhaben in Deutschland. Für Ökonomen bleibt es häufig unklar, warum bestimmte betriebswirtschaftlich sinnvolle Vorhaben in der politischen Praxis kaum durchsetzbar sind. Das Analysekonzept baut auf Kernelementen der Politikfeldanalyse auf. Es werden nicht nur die Akteure auf kommunaler Ebene, Landes- und Bundesebene sowie europäischer Ebene identifiziert, sondern auch deren Interessen. Der Schwerpunkt liegt auf politischen Prozessanalysen landesspezifischer Vorhaben. Die Studie zeigt, dass die aktuelle sparkassenpolitische Situation angespannt ist, was zu verstärkten Sparkassenfusionen führen wird.

Der Islamische Staat – Zwischen Terrorismus, Guerilla und Staatlichkeit

Eine systematisch-kritische Studie zum Forschungsstand

Ist der Islamische Staat (IS) ein Terrornetzwerk, eine Guerillaorganisation oder doch ein Staat? Dieses Buch beantwortet die Frage, indem es hinter die Fassade des Kalifats blickt: Es zeigt auf, wer die Entscheidungsträger des IS sind und nach welcher Ideologie und Strategie sie denken und handeln. Zudem betrachtet es den Aufbau der Organisationsstruktur und der transnationalen Vernetzung. Auf Grundlage der Ergebnisse diskutiert diese Studie am Ende ebenfalls potentielle Gegenmaßnahmen. Durch eine systematisch-kritische Analyse und Auswertung der wichtigsten Fachliteratur zum IS filtert dieses Werk die zuverlässigen Informationen über den Akteur heraus, sodass am Ende ein umfangreiches Gesamtbild präsentiert wird. Vor dem Hintergrund der Terrorismusforschung verortet die Studie den IS als einen Hybrid aus Terror- und Guerillaorganisation.

Identity Construction and (Mis) Perceptions on Being Black in South Africa

Unpacking Socio-Economic, Spatial, and Political Dimensions in the South Durban Basin

Identity Construction and (Mis) Perceptions on Being Black in South Africa: Unpacking Socio-Economic, Spatial, and Political Dimensions in the South Durban Basin presents the research findings of a two-year empirically based study on the politics of race, ethnicity, and identity in Durban, South Africa, among Black or non-White groups, specifically the historical racial categories of African, Indian, and Colored. Research on race and identity politics tends to focus on Black-White relations. Thus, there is a gap in our understanding of ethnic and racial interactions among Blacks. This study challenges the tendency to reduce race to a Black-White binary. The research also recognizes that the examination of differences within and between groups is necessary to understand the complexity of the issues. Its key contributions are in relation to examining the question of identity politics (in terms of nationality, ethnicity, race, class, and gender); unpacking hierarchical and spatial relationships and interactions among and between communities and groups in the home, work places, social arenas, and other public spaces; and highlighting points of conflict/contestation. The main focus is on differential experiences, realities, and perceptions among and between groups.

Transitional Justice in Post-Euromaidan Ukraine

Swimming Upstream

The book focusses on transitional justice policies implemented in Ukraine since the beginning of 2014. The author covers investigations and trials, vetting, historical justice, as well as two issues that only partially refer to the «transitional justice toolbox»: attempts to deal with the consequences of the armed conflict in Donbas and elements of institutional reforms that supplement transitional justice efforts. He explains constraints faced by each of the mentioned policies and interrelationships between them. The author comes to the conclusion that the Ukrainian case presents both similarities and significant differences in comparison to other post-communist countries, which implemented such policies much earlier. Furthermore, there is no evidence supporting the thesis that the implementation of these policies provides visible effects in terms of democratisation of the country.

Action publique / Public Action

Édité par/Edited by Jean-Louis Genard et/and Steve Jacob

La collection Action publique étudie le fonctionnement de l'État sous des angles multiples. Elle privilégie l'analyse des politiques publiques (environnement, santé, emploi, culture, etc.) et l'étude institutionnelle et organisationnelle des administrations publiques. Les mutations qui caractérisent aujourd'hui l'action publique (déréglementation, externalisation, contractualisation, action en réseaux...) sont au cœur de ses préoccupations. Ainsi la collection « Action publique » accorde-t-elle également une place importante aux rapports que l'État entretient avec son environnement, l'appareil politique et la société civile bien sûr, mais aussi avec les évolutions sociétales plus larges (individualisme, globalisation, etc.).

The series Public Action studies the State and how it works from a variety of perspectives. It focuses on public policy analysis (environment, health, employment culture, etc.) as well as the institutional and organizational study of public administrations. The mutations that characterize nowadays public action (deregulation, externalisation, contractualisation and networking) are at the heart of these preoccupations. Consequently, the series « Public Action » also places further emphasis on the relationship the State maintains with its environment; – not only the political apparatus and, of course, civil society, but also with broader social changes such as individualism and globalization.

Cultural Management and Cultural Policy Education

Edited by ENCATC

The series exists to foster critical debate and to publish academic research in the field of cultural management and cultural policy as well as to open up a forum for discussions and debate on the topics of cultural management and cultural policy among scholars, educators, policy makers and cultural managers. It is also intended to provide a reference tool for education and lifelong learning on cultural management and cultural policies. It is becoming more and more evident that education in cultural management and cultural policy cannot and should not be separated from research and being conducted in the field. Since its creation, ENCATC has recognized this need and was always very active in pursuing, publishing, presenting, and disseminating research in arts and cultural management and cultural policy to strengthen the understanding of cultural management and cultural policy issues.

Created in 1992, ENCATC is the «European Network of Cultural Administration Training Centers». It is a membership NGO gathering over 100 Higher Educational Institutions and cultural organisations in 40 countries. It holds the status of official partner of UNESCO and of observer to the Steering Committee for Culture of the Council of Europe.

Enjeux internationaux / International Issues

Édité par/Edited by Eric Bussière, Michel Dumoulin et/and Sylvain Schirmann

L'étude des relations internationales, tout particulièrement dans le champ historique, est issue d'une histoire diplomatique largement renouvelée à travers la prise en compte des forces profondes telles que les a jadis définies Pierre Renouvin. Elle place les États et ceux qui sont chargés de définir et de mettre en œuvre leur politique au cœur de la vie internationale. Selon cette conception, les États conduisent leur action en jouant sur la palette des moyens les plus divers sur lesquels ils peuvent s'appuyer, tels que l'économie ou la culture, et qui agissent ou interagissent les uns par rapport aux autres. La démultiplication des champs d'analyse de la vie internationale se développe ainsi tout au long du XX^e siècle, mais est l'objet d'un nouveau regard en ces temps de mondialisation. Cette dernière, contemporaine du développement des analyses néo-libérales depuis les années 1980, témoigne tout à la fois de la prise de conscience de la démultiplication des acteurs en présence – ONG, entreprises multinationales par exemple – et de la large autonomie d'action de ces multiples acteurs. La collection « enjeux internationaux » se veut représentative de ces perspectives renouvelées et de leur impact sur les recherches actuelles. Sans abandonner l'étude des relations internationales centrées sur les États, elle cherche à mieux appréhender la diversité des segments qui composent le champ international et le mode de relations entre ces derniers : de l'enjeu que constitue le sport à celui de l'usage de la mémoire coloniale. Elle s'adresse ainsi aux universitaires et analystes souhaitant interroger les grandes thématiques du siècle dernier au service d'une réflexion sur le présent.

global life. According to this concept, countries pursue a course of action by taking advantage of the most diverse range of tools they can rely on, such as economic or cultural resources, which act alone or interact with others. The study of international relations grew into different fields of analysis during the 20th century, but it is now subject to a new scrutiny in this era of globalisation. This concept, which coincides with the development of neo-liberal analysis since the 1980s, reveals a new awareness about the increased number of actors NGOs and multinational companies, for example but also the large autonomy they enjoy when it comes to action. This series aims to portray these new perspectives and their impact on current research. Without casting aside studies in international relations that focus on states, it tries to better understand the diverse range of factors that play out on the world stage and how they relate to each other from the high stakes in sport to the use of colonial memory. This series targets academics and analysts who wish to apply 20th century history to contemporary thought.

Géopolitique et résolution des conflits / Geopolitics and Conflict Resolution

Édité par/Edited by Tanguy De Wilde d'Estmael

Cette collection accueille des travaux dont l'objectif est d'analyser les changements géopolitiques ayant marqué la scène européenne et mondiale depuis 1989. Au niveau européen, une attention particulière est consacrée aux conflits post-guerre froide ainsi qu'à la transformation des relations entre l'Union européenne et les grandes puissances. Au niveau mondial, d'intenses bouleversements ont radicalement modifié les grilles de lecture des crises et des conflits, qu'il s'agisse de la prévention, de la gestion ou de la résolution de ceux-ci. Dans cette perspective, la collection est ouverte aux réflexions théoriques et aux études empiriques portant sur le déroulement et les implications internationales de conflits et processus de paix spécifiques.

This series welcomes contributions seeking to analyse the geopolitical changes which have been such a prominent feature of the European and world arena since 1989.

At the European level, there is a particular focus on post-Cold War conflicts along with the transformation which has occurred in relations between the European Union and major powers. At a world level, major upheavals have radically altered the ground rules for understanding conflicts and crises. They have also had far-reaching implications for the prevention, management and resolution of disputes. In this context, the series is open to theoretical and empirical studies which critically examine the international implications and progress of specific conflicts and peace processes.

Interdisciplinary Studies on Central and Eastern Europe

Edited by Christian Giordano, Nicolas Hayoz and Jens Herlth

This series focuses on the political, economic and cultural changes in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. It offers a platform for interdisciplinary research on this multifaceted part of the world. The focus lies mainly on current and recent developments in societies and political systems; but research on cultural and historical backgrounds has its place here, too. The range of disciplines includes political science, history, and social anthropology, but also philosophy, cultural studies, and literary criticism. The articles are written in English.

Nationalisms across the Globe

Edited by Tomasz Kamusella and Krzysztof Jaskułowski

Although in the 1980s the widely shared belief was that nationalism had become a spent force, the fragmentation of the studiously non-national Soviet Union, Yugoslavia, and Czechoslovakia in the 1990s into a multitude of successor nation-states reaffirmed its continuing significance. Today all extant polities (with the exception of the Vatican) are construed as nationstates, and hence nationalism is the sole universally accepted criterion of statehood legitimization. Similarly, human groups wishing to be recognized as fully fledged participants in international relations must define themselves as nations. This concept of world politics underscores the need for openended, broad-ranging, novel, and interdisciplinary research into nationalism and ethnicity. It promotes better understanding of the phenomena relating to social, political, and economic life, both past and present.

This peer-reviewed series publishes monographs, conference proceedings, and collections of articles. It attracts well-researched, often interdisciplinary, studies which open new approaches to nationalism and ethnicity or focus on interesting case studies. The language of the series is usually English.

The series is affiliated with the Institute for Transnational and Spatial History at the University of St Andrews, headed by Bernhard Struck and Tomasz Kamusella. The Institute gathers scholars with a strong interest in the comparative, entangled and transnational history of modern Europe and the globalized world.

Political and Social Change

Edited by Óscar García Agustín and Martin Bak Jorgensen

Political and Social Change is a multidisciplinary series dedicated to the analysis and understanding of changes in modern society. It includes topics such as democratic transformations, cultural dynamics, genealogies of change, collective identities, articulation of alternative discourses, and the role of civil society in processes of change. It covers both historical readings and contemporary studies. It directs attention toward multi-scalar changes in the global world where local, national and transnational practices are intertwined. The series welcomes innovative theoretical approaches in the field of social and political change as well as applied studies that offer new insight about the mentioned topics. It is open to edited volumes and monographs and welcomes comparative studies and transnational perspectives.

Pour une histoire nouvelle de l'Europe

Édité par Eric Bussière

Cette collection a été conçue comme représentative des travaux du Labex (laboratoire d'excellence) EHNE, « Écrire une histoire nouvelle de l'Europe », créé en 2012. Renonçant à une approche dominée par les dimensions politique et institutionnelle, EHNE appréhende l'histoire selon une démarche thématique recouvrant une large palette de champs qu'elle saisit dans leurs évolutions autonomes. Elle revêt une dimension globale en ce qu'elle cherche à comprendre les transversalités et les modes d'interaction existant entre ces champs en vue d'une interprétation d'ensemble.

Les travaux du Labex EHNE s'articulent ainsi autour de sept axes : « L'Europe comme produit de la civilisation matérielle », « L'Europe dans une épistémologie du politique », « L'humanisme européen ou la construction d'une Europe « pour soi » entre affirmation et crise identitaires », « L'Europe, les européens et le monde », « L'Europe des guerres et des traces de guerre », « Genre et identités européennes », « Traditions nationales, circulations et identités dans l'art européen ».

La collection Pour une histoire nouvelle de l'Europe réunit les travaux, monographies, colloques ou tables rondes, issus des travaux d'EHNE. Ces derniers se veulent des contributions et synthèses partielles constitutives d'une entreprise d'ensemble se développant sur plusieurs années.

Regional Integration and Social Cohesion

Edited by Harlan Koff

Regional Integration and Social Cohesion (RISC) is an interdisciplinary and multilingual (English, French, German, Spanish, Italian and Portuguese) series that examines the human and environmental impacts of regional integration, defined legally/politically (supranationalism), economically (globalization), socially (identity), and geographically (borders). The series aims to link global analysis of issues associated with social cohesion, such as market shifts, immigration, environmental risk and the deterioration of natural resources, human rights, violence and security, etc., with national and subnational studies that focus on political decision-making, the non-governmental sector and social participation in public debates, economic transformations, social marginalization, identity, etc. Thus, the series aims to combine the international, national and subnational arenas of politics in thematically-oriented research. While proposed case studies are welcome, the works presented in this series from all social science disciplines, are predominantly based on the comparative method. Studies that compare across geographic regions, defined continentally, are of particular interest.

Trade Unions. Past, Present and Future

Edited by Craig Phelan

This series publishes monographs and edited collections on the history, present condition and possible future role of organised labour around the world. Multidisciplinary in approach, geographically and chronologically diverse, this series is dedicated to the study of trade unionism and the undeniably significant role it has played in modern society. Topics include the historical development of organised labour in a variety of national and regional settings; the political, economic and legal contexts in which trade unionism functions; trade union internationalism past and present; comparative and cross-border studies; trade unions' role in promoting economic equality and social justice; and trade union revitalisation and future prospects. The aims of the series are to promote an appreciation of the diversity of trade union experience worldwide and to provide an international forum for lively debate on all aspects of the subject.
