

Contents

Introduction	13
Territorial federalism and multinational federalism	15
Structure of the book	16
1 Federalism(s) and secession: from constitutional theory to practice	21
CHRISTOPHE PARENT
Introduction	21
1. Confederation: a “free union” that hides its true nature?	26
1.1 From a union of sovereign states	27
1.1.1 Confederation as viewed in Kantian political philosophy	27
1.1.2 The concept of confederation in public law	28
1.2 ... to a “perpetual confederation”	29
1.2.1 Confederal laws against secession	30
1.2.2 The philosophical turning-point in the 16th century: the Dutch influence	32
1.2.3 Universalization of the right of secession: the US Declaration of Independence	32
2. The federal state: an “indissoluble union”?	33
2.1 Federal positive law	34
2.1.1 Federal constitutions expressly allowing a right of secession	34
a) Constitutions that recognized a right of secession in the past	35
b) Constitutions currently recognizing a right of secession	37
2.1.2 Federal constitutions excluding all forms of secession	41

2.1.3	Constitutions that remain silent on the question of secession	44
a)	Interpretation by Supreme Court justices: a centripetal constitutional force	45
b)	Federal realpolitik	50
2.2	Using constitutional theory to cut the Gordian knot of secession	53
2.2.1	The trap set by the syncretism of the federal state	54
2.2.2	Redefining the constitutional basis for secession	55
a)	Partial versus total revision	56
b)	Actual cases	58
2	Secession from a federation: a plea for an autonomous concept of federative secession	63
	OLIVIER BEAUD
	Introduction	63
1.	Defining and identifying the concept of federative secession ...	70
1.1	The dominant conception of secession	70
1.1.1	Secession seen as the aspiration of an infra-state (or infra-nation) group to constitute its own state or nation	70
1.1.2	The legal dogma on secession	73
a)	Secession is not dissolution	73
b)	Secession is not devolution	75
1.2	Federative secession and conceptual autonomy	76
1.2.1	Why the state-centric view of secession fails to account for the specific nature of federative secession ...	76
1.2.2	Dogma on federative secession	79
a)	Federative secession and intra-federative secession	79
b)	Secession of a member state and exclusion of a member state	81
c)	Unilateral or non-unilateral secession?	82
d)	The effects of secession: secession and dissolution	85
2.	Deciding the licitness of federative secession: neither authorized nor prohibited (like secession from a unitary state)	86

2.1 Federative secession cannot be prohibited a priori	89
2.2 The impossible licitness of unilateral federative secession	96
3. The impossibility of imposing a legal sanction on federative secession	99
3.1 The distinction between federal intervention and federal execution	100
3.2 The Civil War, or the division of the union institutionalized by war	105
3 Are federalism and secession really incompatible?	117
JORGE CAGIAO Y CONDE
Introduction	117
1. General approach	122
2. Secession as seen by the theoreticians of federalism	126
3. Secession in positive law	132
4. Secession and “legal logic”	138
Conclusion	144
4 From referendum to secession – Québec’s self-determination process and its lessons	147
DAVE GUÉNETTE AND ALAIN-G. GAGNON
Introduction	147
1 The constitutional capacity of Québec’s institutions to hold a referendum – A stake little debated or opposed	150
1.1 The historical dimensions leading to referendums on the sovereignty of Québec	150
1.1.1 Referendum practices in Québec and Canada prior to the debates on secession	150
1.1.2 The 1980 and 1995 referendums on Québec sovereignty	153
1.2 The legal aspects allowing self-determination referendums in Canada	155
1.2.1 The absence of constitutional restrictions on holding referendums	156
1.2.2 Constitutional practices with respect to referendums ...	157

2 Québec's constitutional ability to declare its independence – An issue far less consensual	159
2.1 The activism of federal institutions	159
2.1.1 The Reference re Secession of Québec and the conciliation of strongly diverging interests by the Supreme Court of Canada	160
2.1.2 The Clarity Act and the federal parliament's declaration that it was both party and judge in the constitutional dispute	163
2.2 The contemporary evolution of the debate and some unanswered questions	166
2.2.1 The threshold of the popular majority required for Québec to declare independence	166
2.2.2 The ambiguity surrounding the duty to negotiate and the process of constitutional amendment	169
Conclusion	172
5 Compromise or dislocation: federal alternatives to secessionist and centralizing temptations	175
LUCÍA PAYERO-LÓPEZ
Introduction	175
1. Federalism in Spain	178
1.1 The federal projects of political parties in the central state	180
1.2 The federal projects of political parties at the regional level	185
2. Federalism and the right to self-determination	190
Conclusion	193
Notes about the Contributors	195