

Table of Contents

Ina Bergmann and Stefan Hippler
Acknowledgments9

I Solitude and American Studies

Ina Bergmann
Cultures of Solitude: Reflections on Loneliness, Limitation, and Liberation in the US13

II Early Solitude: Language, Body, and Gender

Svend Erik Larsen
“Alone, Without a Guide”: Solitude as a Literary and Cultural Paradox.....45

Kevin L. Cope
The Enigmatic and the Ecological: American Late Enlightenment
Hermits and the Pursuit of, in Addition to Happiness, Permanence61

Coby Dowdell
“The Luxury of Solitude”: Conduct, Domestic Deliberation, and the Eighteenth-Century Female Recluse.....79

III Solitude in the Nineteenth Century: Gender, Politics, and Poetics

Ina Bergmann
“Away to Solitude, to Freedom, to Desolation!”: Hermits and Recluses in Julia Ward Howe’s The Hermaphrodite..... 101

Margaretta M. Lovell
Thoreau and the Landscapes of Solitude: Painted Epiphanies in Undomesticated Nature..... 123

Hélène Quanquin
“The World to Each Other”: The Joint Politics of Isolation and Reform among Garrisonian Abolitionists..... 139

IV Solitude from the Nineteenth to the Twentieth Century: Society, Spirituality, and Religion

Ira J. Cohen

Three Types of Deep Solitude: Religious Quests, Aesthetic
Retreats, and Withdrawals due to Personal Distress 155

Kevin Lewis

American Lonesome: Our Native Sense of Otherness 169

V Solitude in the Twentieth Century: Space, Gender, and Ethnicity

Randall Roorda

“Mind Is the Cabin”: Substance and Success in Post-Thoreauvian
Second Homes 187

Nassim Winnie Balestrini

Socially Constructed Selfhood: Emily Dickinson in Full-Cast and Single-Actor Plays..... 203

Jochen Achilles

Changing Cultures of Solitude: Reclusiveness in Sandra Cisneros’s The House on Mango Street 217

VI Solitude from the Twentieth to the Twenty-First Century: Space, Identity, and Pathology

Clare Hayes-Brady

“It’s What We Have in Common, This Aloneness”: Solitude, Communality, and the Self in the Writing of David Foster Wallace 231

Rüdiger Heinze

Alone in the Crowd: Urban Recluses in US-American Film..... 245

VII Solitude Today: Technology, Community, and Identity

Stefan Hippler

Solitude in the Digital Age: Privacy, Aloneness, and Withdrawal in Dave Eggers’s The Circle..... 259

Scott Slovic

Going Away to the Wilderness for Solitude ... and Community: Ecoambiguity, the Engaged Pastoral, and the 'Semester in the Wild' Experience..... 275

Robert J. Coplan and Julie C. Bowker

Should We Be Left Alone? Psychological Perspectives on the Implications of Seeking Solitude 287

Contributors..... 303

Index 305

