

Johannes Ljungberg / Alexander Maurits /
Erik Sidenvall (eds.)

Cultures in Conflict

Religion, History and Gender in
Northern Europe c. 1800–2000

Johannes Ljungberg / Alexander Maurits / Erik Sidenvall (eds.)

Cultures in Conflict

This book includes studies of main conflict areas in modern Western societies where religion has been a central element, ranging from popular movements and narratives of opposition to challenges of religious satire and anti-clerical critique. Special attention is given to matters of politics and gender. With this theme, it provides a useful guide to conflict areas in modern European religious history.

The Editors

Johannes Ljungberg is a Postdoctoral Fellow in History at the University of Copenhagen.

Alexander Maurits is a Senior Lecturer in Church History at Lund University.

Erik Sidenvall is Adjunct Professor of Church History at Lund University.